In the Brookfield, Ill., zoo, some 120 male alligators, whose bellow usually gets a "yoo-hoo" from the 'gatergals, merely yawned this year. HISTORY OF RAYMOND

By ELIZABETH KING

WARREN DEPEW

At one time Jesse Knight's Foreman
Warren Depew was born in Payson
May 24, 1871.

Due to the death of Mr. Depew's father, he had to quit school at an early age and support his mother, brother and two sisters. He was a lover of good horses and so he purchased one of the best teams in Payson at that time. He hauled wood from the mountains for people because that was the main fuel then. He liked to shear sheep and every spring he would go with a group of men into Wyoming to shear.

Jesse Knight owned a large tract of land North West of Payson and decided to farm it and chose Warren Depew to be the foreman. He had a large crew of men and teams breaking up the raw sage brush land getting it ready to sow to grain and alfalfa.

On November 7, 1898, he married Emma Powell.

At that time Jesse Knight bought land in Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Depew were living on the Knight ranch feeding cattle to ship to Canada. Brother Knight asked him to take charge of one of the train loads of cattle and after arriving in Canada July 18, 1901, and being of pioneer stock, he was thrilled with the idea of starting a new community and liking the country he decided to stay here. He sent for his wife and two sons Warren and Ralph. The little town south of May Meek's was the house he had ready for the family when they arrived.

When he came in 1901 they came as far as Cutbank by train and from there by wagon. They had 300 head of horses and many loads of machinery and some large iron pipe for the Sugar Factory. They made a trail which can be seen to this day. They arrived on the Factory Section August 1st, 1901.

Brother Jesse Knight put him in charge of breaking 3000 acres of land for sugar beets and it was ready at the date promised. He held the plow that turned the first sod in Raymond.

Warren Depew passed away September 24, 1945.

Mr. and Mrs. Depew were blessed with ten children and most of them reside in and around Raymond. They are: Warren, Ralph, Dora, Ray, Atha Luella, Melvin, Hazel, and Maud. Atha is Stake Bee Keeper and Lucille is president of the Second Ward Primary. The latter two are attending the June Conference in Salt Lake City at the present time.

It is interesting to note that Mrs. Warren Depew's father, William Powell who was born in England was a mason and stone cutter and was called by the authorities of the L.D. S. Church to cut stone for the Salt Lake Temple. This he did for 6 years. He also cut stone for the Manti Temple. He helped build many fine homes in Payson Utah. When the Black Hawk war broke out he was among those called to defend the settlements against the Indians and had many narrow escapes. Some time later he was doing a charity job building a chimney for a widow when the scaffold broke throwing him violently to the ground which resulted in his death. He was with the first hand cart company to reach Salt Lake in 1856.

FRED PIEPGRASS Tells some very interesting experiences of pioneer life in Canada.

In March 1899 Miss Anna Hicks and I were married in the Salt Lake Temple. A few days later we moved from South Cottonwood Ward which is about ten miles south-east of Salt Lake City, over into Morgan County East Porterville Ward. We located on a farm at East Canyon Creek. The gophers were so bad that during the summer crops were destroyed. We left in July and moved to Murray seven miles south of Salt Lake where I was employed as a Butcher. Our first baby girl was born February 15, 1900 whom we named Bulha. (Bulha was matron of the Cardston hospital for a number of years.) In the Spring of 1899 E. B. Hicks and my brother John came to Alberta and worked on the irrigation canal south of Magrath, at Hammond's Camp. They returned in the spring of 1900. E. B. Hicks, being my brother-in-law wanted me to return to Alberta with him. So I decided with my wife to find our home in a new country. A complete outfit was prepared and the equipment that would be necessary and shipped them by rail to the Immigration Office in Lethbridge. We started our trip from Salt Lake on May 10 and arrived Bay 18. It was decided that my wife should follow at a later date. Bro. Henry Holmes coming at the same time to Alberta, we settled at Magrath later coming to Raymond. We were cleared at the Customs and Immigration office, loaded our supplies and drove our teams to Hammond's Camp, which at this time was located on the northwest corner of the fifteen mile lake. Mr. Hammond had a two mile contract through the deep cut where Bro. Wm. Palmer located on a farm (now owned by Jesse Atwood. Their job was finished in August. Then Hicks and I took our outfit south of Cardston and did some plowing, living in a tent. On the 25th of August I witnessed my first Canadian blizzard. Six inches of snow fell. In September we moved west of Magrath and employed on the railroad grade between Magrath and Spring Coulee. When this was finished we went back to Cardston returned to plowing and put the outfit up for the winter. Hicks was employed in Cardston as a blacksmith. Hammond had a contract grading and graveling Round Street now 5th St. in Lethbridge the first to be done in Lethbridge. I worked there until this was completed. Then a contract was made for work in Cranbrook B.C. pulling ties out of the woods. I also went to B.C. making ties during the winter and returned to Cardston in the spring of 1901. My wife came up from Salt Lake with Bro. Thomas Duce after April conference. We lived in a tent that summer and farmed. Just when the grain was ready to harvest a snow storm came and left us with 3 feet of snow and the grain had to be cut all one way. After threshing I brought a load of grain to Raymond for feed. At that time the Town Site was laid out. Sometime in July the Knights moved here on the open prairie (and it was open; I passed over this place several times before then.) I think they had contracted to plow about 3000 acres of land that summer and fall. They laid a pipe from the spring south of town which served the town for several years with drinking water. A dam was put in the east coulee for stock. The land was very dry and the plowing was hard but the before mentioned snow storm saved the situation. Three inches and a half of water fell here in the form of snow and rain which made plowing good. Mr. Hicks came here from Cardston to do blacksmithing and at this time the first building was erected for a blacksmith shop.

A few families had come here at the same time as the Knights from Payson Utah. Later in the fall, a ward was organized with Bro. J. Wm. Knight, brother to the late O. Raymond Knight for whom the town was named) and he chose for his councillors Jas. Bevans and Ephraim B. Hicks. Eph, as he was known, later married Gerty Rolfsen. I built a house just south of the late Susie Hicks home and moved into it in November. The first winter here is long to be remembered, we had some very severe storms and the houses were not of the best. The first residence was built by the late F. B. Rolfsen, which still stands. By the way, I had the pleasure of meeting Brother and Sister King in the Post Office at Cardston. They were sent here on an MIA mission to the Alberta Stake from Idaho. They liked the country so well that they never went back and have made their home in Raymond. I think they were also here on their first honeymoon. However the few families that were here had a good time together. Among the number of families that I remember here that first winter there were Ray Knight, J. Wm. Knight, Henry Fairbanks, F. B. Rolfsen, George Zuffelt, Jas. Dunn, Geo. Munns, Warren Depew, Chas. Selman, George Court, Jas. Bevans, Albert Nelson, whose wife had the first child in Raymond, Richard Betts, L.H. Holbrook and a few young men and women without families, and my family. We had the second child in Raymond on 21 January, 1902. Several others were born during the next few months. Sister Russel, then of Stirling, acted as doctor and nurse, later moving to Taber. Between blizzards and prairie fires there were some exciting times and often the temperature dropped to 45 below zero. I went to Cardston in the latter part of March, 1902 and coming back I spent the night with Brother and Sister J. B. Ririe at Magrath. At 8 am. Sunday it was still 25 below. I had been on the road 3 days trailing a seed drill, a load of grain and a blower with six head of horses. I arrived home on the afternoon of the third day.

Spring finally came and with it came the people. I had been appointed Ward Clerk in those days. The people brought their recommends with them and there was a number of them every Sunday, the town was growing at a rapid rate. At seed time the 3000 acres were planted and a lot of plowing was done during the spring. Most of the 3000 acres was cut up into 5 and ten acre lots being on the west side of town and under irrigation. It was planted to sugar beets in 1903 in which year the Knight Sugar Factory was built. The summer of 1902 was a very wet year the snow and rainfall as I remember it about 26 inches of water. The crops were good. That year hay could be cut anywhere on the prairie the wheat was frozen also oats in dbarl inches high. In May 1903 the much then on the settlers will remember remembered snow storm came and the ups and downs we have had in covered the prairie to a depth of 3 feet. Much of the grain had been planted so it became a late spring (To be continued next week)

The Refugee Problem

MANY OF THE GRAVE PROBLEMS which resulted from the war are still unsolved, and it is evident that it may be some time before satisfactory solutions have been found for all of them. One that is still causing considerable concern is the finding of homes for the many thousands of displaced persons who are still in camps in various parts of Europe. At present there are between 600,000 and 700,000 people in such camps, and Sir Herbert Emerson, director-general of the inter-governmental committee on refugees has predicted that it will be at least three years before homes are found for all these people. Although such large numbers are still homeless, it is evident that much progress has been made since the end of the war in dealing with this tragic and difficult problem, since the records show that 11,000,000 refugees have already returned to their native countries.

Many Look For New Homes

Of those now numbered among the displaced persons are many thousands who do not wish to return to their own lands, and arrangements are now being made for them to be admitted to countries where there is a scarcity of labor. Within the next eighteen months it is expected that several hundred thousand European refugees and their dependents may be taken to Britain. France has plans for bringing in large numbers of displaced persons to work in her industries, while Belgium has expressed the intention of admitting some 35,000 workers, with their dependents. Eight thousand workers have already gone to Holland, taking their dependents with them. It is also expected that some will be placed in South America and the British Dominions.

Some Have Been Admitted Here

In Canada there has been considerable interest in the problem of displaced persons. Already about 6,000 refugees, who are relatives of Canadian citizens have been admitted to this country as well as small numbers of workers who have been brought in under special arrangements. Investigations have also been made into the possibilities of bringing in lumbermen, sugar beet workers, textile workers and others with specialized trades. It would seem heartless, indeed, for Canada to hesitate to do her part in helping to rehabilitate these people who suffered so greatly during the war. The question, however, is related to many broader problems, including immigration and present standards of wages and living. There are many diverse opinions regarding these matters, but it would appear that Canadians should not be unwilling to assist to some extent at least in bringing about an end to this problem, which at best cannot be completely solved for several years.

BRITAIN WANTS TO BUY FROM CANADA

That Denmark will capture the United Kingdom's bacon export trade is a wrong attitude of mind and "I am surprised at a note of defeatism among Canadian farmers regarding this business," Sir Andrew Jones, head of a British food mission, said at a reception in Lindsay, Ont. He said the Canadian farmer has the food stuff right at his door, can produce a good export bacon which can compete, and, "we as a people, have a natural preference for Canadian goods. We want to buy in Canada but we must buy on the best market when it comes to price."

Lady Bellringers Welcomed By Church

EXETER, Devonshire, England.—"Women have invaded the belfry," the Bishop of Exeter, Dr. C. E. Curzon, told a conference of the Central Council of Church Bellringers. "I welcome the invasion. Bellringing is a great exercise. It should be good for the figure."

CHANGE ADVISABLE

A change, rest and recreation is needed at least once a year, say medical authorities. Both mind and body need this let-down, if they are to continue to give the service expected of them.

Hello Folks!

"An important part of my diet ever since my first bottle has been Crown Brand Corn Syrup. Now, that may be all right for a little character like myself, but let me tell you, these grown-ups sure are lucky what with Mom serving them Crown Brand Corn Syrup with so many of their dishes. And she uses it in her baking, too, as a sweetener. I can hardly wait until I'm old enough to have some hot waffles or pancakes smothered with delicious Crown Brand. If it's as good as it is in my cereal—mmmm!"

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

Father—Now, son, tell me why I punish you?
Son—That does it. First you pound the life outa me and now you don't know why you did it!

A travelling salesman who got married and took his bride South on their honeymoon, visited a certain hotel where they boasted of the fine quality of their honey.

The first morning, at the breakfast table, the groom said to the waiter: "Sam, where's my honey?"

"Golly, I don't know, boss," answered Sam, cycling the bride cautiously. "She don't work here no mo'."

Then there was the overstuffed dowager who complained that if the photographer took her picture in profile it would show only one eye.

"Never mind, madam," said the photographer, "your profile will show both of your chins."

The teacher had asked her class to think up some outstanding examples of wasted energy.
"All right, Freddy, what's yours?" asked the teacher.

"Parlor is another name for drawing-room."

Bricklayer: "I'd like to work here, but I can't find a place to park my car."
Foreman: "I guess you won't do. We want only bricklayers with chauffeurs."

Widow: "Well, yes; it does seem strange to come into the shop and find something in the till!"

ONTARIO GOVERNMENT SET NEW RULES OF "WELCOME" FOR TOURIST CAMPS

"Welcome" means little to the tourist who is crammed into roadside slums, eaten by garbage-bred flies, gyped out of advertised "recreational facilities," and sent home with a bad taste in his mouth. Canada, he tells his friends, phooey!

To make impossible such references to Ontario's tourist facilities, the provincial Government recently passed regulations licensing tourist camps, setting forth standards of service and sanitation, and outlawing misleading advertising.

In so doing, Ontario became the fourth Canadian province to tidy up her visitor industry. British Columbia, Alberta, and New Brunswick have already attended to their house-keeping, and tourist officials are hoping that, with other provinces following suit, the golden postwar tourist egg will never shrink to pullet size.

Ontario's new regulations come in two sections. One deals with licensing, maintenance of camps, registration, enforcement, etc., and is imposed under the Tourist Camps Regulations Act, 1946. The other deals with truthful advertising, and is passed under the Department of Travel and Publicity Act, 1946.

A license is required to operate a tourist camp in Ontario, to start construction of one, or to enlarge an existing one. Persons who operated during 12 months prior to March 31, 1947, and who have not since enlarged them, needn't get a license until March 31, 1948.

In municipalities, licenses are to be issued by municipal clerks; in unorganized territory, by the district inspector of the Ontario Provincial Police. The issuer must satisfy himself that the applicant is a fit person to hold a license, and that the enterprise complies with provincial regulations and municipal by-laws. He must notify both the applicant and the Minister of Travel and Publicity of his decision to issue or refuse the license. The right of appeal to county or district courts is provided. Fees are $5 on application, $2.50 for yearly renewal.

Camp operators are required to maintain sanitary facilities in good repair, keep the camp and equipment clean, provide adequate facilities for garbage and dispose of garbage by RETIREES FROM OFFICE—After 17 years' service, Cecil Snyder, seen here, is retiring from his post as deputy attorney-general of Ontario. It was announced at Queen's Park.

B.C. Woman Likes Trapper's Life

VANCOUVER.—Miss Ella Fry packed her newly-purchased "frillies" and a year's supply of red nail polish alongside her cartridge and fur-lined parka here recently and headed back north—for Miss Fry is British Columbia's only registered woman trapper.

Thirty years ago, her parents took her to the Alameda district, about 500 miles northeast of here, north of the North Thompson River where she now operates her own trapline.

With no help from "mere men", Miss Fry built 10 log cabins along her trap line where she empties her traps, skels the animals and packs the pelts—all by herself.

But she is by no means a man-hater and packs a large ruby on her capable left hand to prove it. She is engaged to a fellow-trapper.

A legend in the North Thompson Country, Miss Fry has been known to don caulked boots and ride the booms with the men and has a 43-pound salmon to her credit to further prove her prowess.

It was she who exploded the theory that a direct shot at a grizzly's head would only glance off the sloping forehead. She did it the hard way, kneeling at 50 paces.

"Only thing I'm worried about," the female Daniel Boone said, "are those big chunks of snow, 800 pounds or so, up in the tree tops. A bit of wind and down they come. They'd drive you 10 feet into the ground."

She looked surprisingly feminine for a woman trapper while she sat in the beautiful chair, but assured reporters it was only temporary.

"No miss the city? No sir. I wouldn't trade places with any woman, in single or double harness."

PREDICT U.S. TO DEFEND SUEZ LONDON.—British military authorities have revealed a plan is afoot whereby the responsibility for military defence of the Mediterranean, Middle East and Suez Canal would be taken over by the United States.

Alberta To Spend $100,000 On Publicity Drive

EDMONTON.—Contract for a $100,000 publicity campaign to promote industrial development in Alberta has been awarded to the Harold F. Stanfield, Ltd., advertising agency, after reviewing bids received from all advertising agencies in the province.

The campaign, starting next fall, will run two years. Media will include newspapers, publications, special booklets, films and billboards with the object of promotion of Alberta as the best location in the Dominion for industrial expansion.

Alberta business and industries have been invited to contribute to the campaign on a dollar-for-dollar basis with the Government. Subscriptions are said to be encouraging.

500 A-Bombs Could Destroy Whole World

LOS ANGELES.—Dr. Stafford Warren, former medical chief of the Manhattan Project, warned that the dropping of 500 Hiroshima-size atom bombs would destroy every human being, plant and animal in the world.

Warren, now dean of the University of California at Los Angeles Medical School, told a UCLA atomic conference that even survivors eventually would succumb to the deadly radio-active after-effects.

"Unleashing 250 bombs in the air and 250 under water would wipe out our great cities and create poisonous radio-active clouds which would sweep around the world, raining slow death on every living thing," he warned.

A CONTRA-ACCOUNT

Story told by a Harley street specialist: "At the end of the quarter I sent a lawyer patent a bill for $25 for two consultations for an hour each, and got this reply: 'For time wasted while waiting for appointments which were never kept owing to non-arrival of doctor—approximately seven hours—$35.'"

Hong Kong To Remain British Colony

HONG KONG.—Britain has no plans to return this crown colony to China, acting Governor David M. MacDougall said recently.

Steps are being taken to provide a greater measure of self-government but it will remain an uncompromised British possession he said.

Asked in an interview about overwhelming of the British possession here, as when the Shanghai international settlement was returned to the Chinese at the height of the war, MacDougall said there had been no discussions on the subject.

"There is not the slightest doubt in my mind that the local Chinese feel that the blackest nightmare they could be beset by would be the abandonment of this crown colony by us."

"They fear another Shanghai." (The governor was referring to riots in Shanghai for food and increased wages, and to the near-standstill of trade resulting from uncertainty of the Chinese currency.)

The government announced a cut in the price of rice and an increase in the ration here, admirably timed to impress the local Chinese with the soaring black market in rice in Shanghai.

"Much of the cry for the return of Hong Kong, which was occupied by the British 106 years ago, is for political purposes. I have no doubt," MacDougall said.

Trade here is back to pre-war volume, though tonnage figures are still off. Inflation is the difference.

The comparative prosperity and tranquillity of South China is due in part, MacDougall feels, to the stable influence of Hong Kong.

No changes have been made in Hong Kong's defense, and no major work has been done on existing facilities.

"The reason is, I suppose," he said, "that Hong Kong is indefensible against a major power and we know it."

FOLLOWS IN YOUR FOOTSTEPS

It springs from the rich earth furrowed by your plough. It is born of the wheat and the corn and the barley and all the food you produce.

Yes, your crops are the very foundation of our nation's prosperity, because food is an absolute necessity for every man, woman and child... because the growing of food is Canada's most important primary industry. And the greater your harvests — the more solid is prosperity's foundation.

The food you grow is also helping to build a lasting peace by warding off famine in the war-ravaged countries of Europe, during these years of reconstruction.

Indeed, yours is a tremendous responsibility... to the nation and to the world. But Canada is fully confident that you will continue to produce all the food you possibly can... that your footsteps will never falter in the vanguard of prosperity.

Time To Plough Sweet Clover

By Wesley Smith

Although it will be some time before the recent crop is harvested, nevertheless, it is about time to start preparations for the 1948 crop. The sweet clover will soon be ready for summer fallowing.

In some years it may be necessary to irrigate before plowing sweet clover but this year, with the heavy winter precipitation and the recent rains, there should be enough moisture in the soil to promote growth and to provide suitable conditions for a first class job of plowing. However, if weather turns dry, irrigating may be necessary.

Two reasons for including sweet clover in a rotation are to add organic matter and nitrogen to the soil. The longer a crop is permitted to grow the more organic matter and nitrogen it will contain, but there are several objections to leaving the crop until maximum growth is attained.

A high growth of clover is difficult to plow. The plow often gets plugged up, and the growth is not completely covered. Growth, particularly if it is woody, sticking up between the furrows makes surface cultivation difficult. Late plowed clover fields frequently have a dry surface soil and plows up in large chunks which are difficult to work down into a proper seed-bed condition.

A number of farmers who have had good results with sweet clover consider that it should be plowed when it starts to bud. The crop should reach this stage by the middle of this month and when the crop is about 18 inches high. Plowed at this stage, the crop is more easily covered, it decays quickly and it permits almost immediate surface cultivation. Plowing should be six to eight inches deep, and a puckerfield can be disced, furrowed and should be pulled immediately after irrigated. the plow. In about a week's time the

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

Minerva's Basket

By ELAINE FRANCIS

MINERVA Miller on her way to stay with the Jordan children paused in front of Decker's Antique shop. By scrunching her neck she could see her clock and its price tag. Twenty-five dollars! When she had sold her possessions to defray the expense of papa's funeral, Decker had begrudgingly given her three. Well, that was the way of the world and no sense complaining. She was a very lucky woman to have found her niche this late in life, and luckier to have saved almost twenty-five dollars from her baby-sitting fees. She stared longingly at the ornate mass of black onyx with cherubs entwined around its base and yearned for tomorrow when it would again be hers.

Mrs. Jordan, a picture in a pale yellow and saffron, was standing beside her car when Minerva arrived. "Oh, there you are," she called with relief. "I'll be at the Civic Convention, Hotel Taft, if you need me. Mr. Jordan's staying in town so you won't have to fuss. Just give the children bacon and eggs and put them to bed early. I'll be home tomorrow afternoon. And with that she was gone.

The eight-year-old twins came shrilling out of the house. "How's Minerva, the wise old owl," Billy shrieked, dancing around her.

"Fine," Minerva replied, "and glad to see you." Knowing from past experience how hard it was to amuse them, she suggested taking a walk.

"I won't go," Molly said flatly. "I want to stay right here." She sat on a rigid folding chair, her lips pouting and her large eyes staring.

"Those dopey Ryan kids down the block," Billy explained, "are having a party and didn't invite us. Molly doesn't want them to see us. Silly goop, who cares?"

But it was clear that he too cared. Why weren't they invited, Minerva wondered, the Jordans were as prosperous and respectable as any of the other families. The answer came as she looked at them. Billy's untidy hair was desperately in need of cutting, his heels were run down and his pants torn. Little Molly's blonde curls were dreadfully tangled in two braids and her dress showed a good two inches of ragged underpants. You'd think they came from the slums, she decided angrily. And all because Mrs. Jordan was so busy with her clubs and committees. They were really good children but others as good had been ruined by neglect.

At least they were spotless and their hair brushed to a gleam when they went to bed. But long after they had fallen asleep, Minerva sat by the fire, mending their clothes. But it was a hopeless task, they needed complete new wardrobes and motherly attention. Poor darlings, no wonder people called them hoodlums. If only Mrs. Jordan's interest was aroused, there would be great changes. Perhaps, if her pride was hurt... Suddenly an idea popped into her brain but it involved a risk and the spending of all her money, that Minerva tried to dismiss it. Could she, after all her scrimping, give up the clock? The faces of the twins rose before her eyes and she felt ashamed of her hesitation.

The next morning after leaving the children at school, she entered a grocery store on a side street. One she knew Mrs. Jordan never patronized.

Nervously patting her white hair into place under her shabby blue hat, she told the bored clerk to make up a basket. "Nineteen dollars of oranges, bread, canned vegetables and a chicken," she said, placing the money on the counter. A simple bow, no card, to be delivered to the Jordan children on Maple Street. Leaning forward she whispered, "It's a joke, you understand, more of a homecoming than a Bon Voyage." And stammering slightly, she added, "Promise never to tell who ordered it. That would spoil everything." The clerk, slightly dazed, agreed.

Having completed her mission, she went back to Main Street walking rapidly with head inverted past Mr. Decker's shop. Foolish, no doubt, but she could not bear to see her cherished clock. Its chimes rang out as she passed the open door, and her heart sank. Perhaps in another two months...

But if Mrs. Jordan found out what Minerva had done, her baby-sitting career would be over. For a second she was tempted to run back to the grocery store and cancel the order. And what about those poor children, were they to be allowed to grow up ragged and untended, developing all kinds of complexes? Squaring her thin shoulders, Minerva marched on briskly.

Molly and Billy ignored the basket except to swipe some plums but it electrified Mrs. Jordan on her arrival. "What is this doing here?" she demanded.

"I'm not quite sure," Minerva replied almost truthfully, for at this minute it seemed a crazy idea. "It came addressed to the children. From some organization, I believe."

"What on earth do you mean?" Mrs. Jordan gasped.

"The delivery boy said," Minerva continued lying painfully, "that some club helping the underprivileged..."

"Underprivileged," Mrs. Jordan screamed. "Miss Miller, you must be mad."

Secretly, Minerva agreed. Fortunately the twins, whom she had purposely not fussed over, came running in to create a noisy diversion. For the first time Minerva saw their mother take a long hard look at them. "You're sloppy," Mrs. Jordan said sharply, "march right upstairs. I'll be up in a second to wash you." And to Minerva, "Here is your money, Miss Miller. Why not take some fruit home with you. Obviously there's been a mistake but since you don't know the name of the store, I can hardly return it..."

Minerva noted the uncertainty in her voice. The mere idea of anyone considering her children among the needy had rocked her to the toes.

She was not surprised, therefore, to receive a call from Mrs. Jordan cancelling her services for future dates. "I'm taking the children shopping today and resigning from a number of committees," she explained. "Chairmanships entail too heavy a load."

My meddling, Minerva thought, always results in lessening of my "charitable" trade. But she smiled happily. In other ways it had paid to put all her eggs in one basket.

EX-PRINCE ASKS RENT DECREASE—Ex-Prince Carl Johann Bernadotte, shown here with the girl for whom he renounced his rights to the Swedish throne, appealed to court for a cut in rent on his New York apartment because "we found rats". The nephew of King Gustaf of Sweden said his landlady failed to carry out promises to decorate the duplex apartment after he signed a two-year lease at $8,000 a year. "Every time we went to the food bin we found rats," said the former Mrs. Kerstin Wijkmark, 36-year-old Swedish divorcee for whom the ex-prince renounced his royal rights.

- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 to 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese
- 2 tablespoons top milk or evaporated milk
- 1/4 cup jam or jelly

Sift flour once, measure, add salt, and sift again. Cream together shortening until pieces are about the size of small peas. Then add milk and blend.

Roll out on lightly floured board to 1/4 inch thickness. Cut with floured 3-inch round cutter. Place 1 teaspoon jam or jelly on each round. Fold over and press edges together with fork. Place on ungreased baking sheet and bake in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 15 minutes, or until done. Makes 1 dozen turnovers.

Return to tray and freeze 30 minutes longer; stir. Then freeze until firm. Freezing time: 3 to 4 hours. Makes 1 1/2 quarts.

ORIGIN OF PHRASE

Boats were used to build emergency bridges for use in wartime. The bridges were burned as the retreat went on when an army had to give way, and thus we got the phrase, "to burn one's bridges."

BRITISH MARKET ASSURED FOR CANADIAN LUMBER

VANCOUVER. — Sir Frederick Bain, deputy chairman of the Imperial Industries, president of the Federation of British Industries, and one of the United Kingdom's most prominent industrialists, sees no chance of Britain's buying lumber from anywhere but Canada in the near future.

Visiting Vancouver for the Foreign Trade Week here, Sir Frederick discounted reports that Russia will or could supply Britain with lumber.

"Russia is using all its own lumber and is taking all that Norway, Finland and surrounding countries have," he said.

Canadian lumber is badly needed in Great Britain, and the demand will continue for years, he added. Lumber is so scarce that the repair and building program is in difficulties in the United Kingdom. Houses have to be built with no wood on the main floor, and experiments are being made with aluminum dwellings.

Sir Frederick, head of one of the world's largest chemical concerns, thinks that Canada could quite profitably adopt an immigration program.

Japanese Now Want Taller Mates

TOKYO. — Japanese men and women are seeking taller mates since they've had a chance to admire the six-footers in the American army of occupation, according to Japan's foremost marriage consultant.

Mrs. Tokiko Sato, who works for the Japanese government's marriage consultation bureau, says the desire for added height is found in both male and female customers.

She should know. In the past four years, she has personally found mates for 160 applicants.

The average five-foot-five Japanese feels uncomfortable in the presence of his girl friend since the tall Americans came to Tokyo, according to Mrs. Sato.

The male desire for a tall wife seems to be founded in a wish for taller offspring, she said.

Second Series Of "Baby" Bonds Will Be Issued

OTTAWA. — The government said that it was considering offering a second series of "baby" bonds this fall which were inaugurated last year to replace victory loans during the war.

A return tabled for Thomas Reid (L—New Westminster) said: "It is clear that the Canada savings bonds received a welcome and widespread response last year as an avenue for encouraging and assisting regular savings programs of individuals and of providing a safe and readily redeemable small savings bond."

"It appears desirable to continue to provide facilities for such purposes, and it has been decided in principle, therefore, that a second series will be offered this autumn. Details of the issue have not been finally worked out, but will be announced at some appropriate time in the future."

Caught Trout Without Hook

LEWISTON, Ida. — John Olson, 15, was wading in the Clear-Water River when he became frightened by the ugly mouth of a steelhead trout. He grabbed a rock and let fly with perfect aim.

While walking home, the lad had six offers to buy the 13-pound 36-inch trout, but became worried about having taken it without pole and hook.

"I thought sure the fish was going to bite," he said.

"Obviously self-defence," ruled game warden Harry Palmer.

Dominion Will Aid Land Development

Increased development of farm lands from British Columbia to Nova Scotia may be undertaken with federal assistance as the result of a government announcement in the House of Commons by the Right Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Dominion Minister of Agriculture.

The Dominion government is prepared to discuss with the provinces concerned plans under which development could proceed over a period to be agreed upon, sufficiently long to bring about the desired results, but not to exceed five years.

Among the possible projects are reclamation of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick dykelands; flood control, land drainage and irrigation in British Columbia; the clearing and breaking of new land for farming all across Canada.

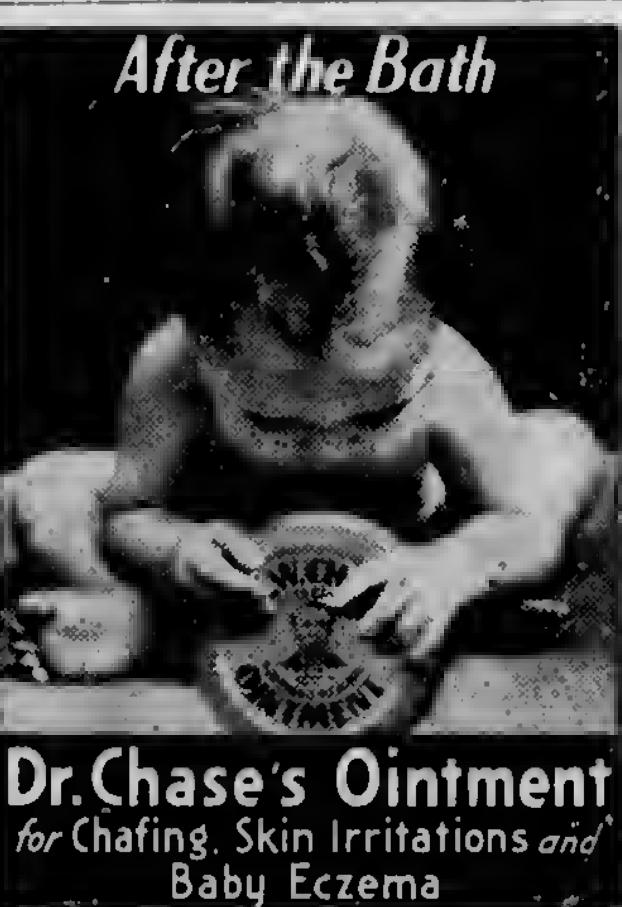

"Any expenditure of money on these projects will be brought before Parliament and legalized through an item on the estimates," said Mr. Gardiner.

In making this announcement, Mr. Gardiner said that the Government has decided not to extend the principles of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act beyond the established drought and soil-drifting PFRA area in the three prairie provinces.

MY WEEK

by R. J. Deachman

One of the most amusing experiences I have had was to interview a number of city children who had their first experience of life in the country and in small towns. There was one little girl about seven years old I will always remember her. I wanted to test her knowledge and mentioned a number of people asking if she knew who they were. She was good at it but when I asked about Hitler, and this was before the war, she said, "He's in the cost of everything." There I was stuck. She could tell me no more. She was right, mind you, but where did she get the idea? I never found out.

How is the state of our public health? It is very satisfactory—this is a healthy country. Let's take a look at the record. There is a feeling in some quarters that a reduction in the national income or a period of hard times has a serious effect upon health. We may rest content, the facts do not support this assumption. It seems that even babies do a bit better when times are hard but this may be doubtful. There are many facts that effect the health of the nation and a close examination would require a very thorough knowledge of existing facts. There are, however, some things which we ought to know and they stand out clear as the sun at noonday.

Infantile death rate during the years 1926-30, a boom period was 93 per thousand live births. From 1931-35 when we were into the depression it dropped to 75. It's been going down steadily ever since and stood at 55 in 1944.

The general death rate during this period dropped steadily. The lowest rate was actually reached in 1934 when we touched 9.4 per thousand. These are cheering signs, they show the steady progress of medical science. We should keep the figures in mind when we hear the suggestion that a higher standard of living might bring us better health, there is scant evidence that it would.

How do we compare with other countries. The lowest death rates are usually in the smaller countries. Here are some figures for 1944 they are the latest available:

Canada—9.7, New Zealand 9.7, Australia 9.5, United States 10.6 The maternal death rate per thousand and live births has declined steadily and is now 2.7 per thousand live births, or less than half the 1926-30 level.

These changes now list us among the healthier countries of the world. Let us be thankful for that—even the grouches—we have plenty of them, should be grateful.

It rained in Ottawa from one o'clock Sunday morning, May 18th to two o'clock Sunday afternoon. It was a cold wet rain. We live in an apartment block, three floors up—don't worry about me, there's an elevator. Directly opposite the living room window a pair of robins built a nest. They have done it for several years. I have at times wondered whether they should have gone to some other place but why should I assume a greater knowledge on how to build a nest—that is the inherited knowledge of robins. I said nothing, treated them kindly, smiled when they looked at me.

The rain was cold and penetrating. Lady robin was on the nest at ten o'clock in the evening and sat straight through to two o'clock in the afternoon. At other times the "old man" came around and stood guard while she went out for a bite. When I looked out about seven o'clock in the morning she had her wings spread out like a canopy to keep the rain from getting into the nest. She was restless, rose to her feet now and then and pecked into the nest. I wondered what was wrong, why she was so anxious.

At 2 p.m. she gave a sharp chirp, the cock robin was right on hand. She flew off as if it were heavenly to stretch her wings. He stared into the nest with a look of relief. Happiness and pride appeared in his face. Birth, the great miracle of life had made him once more a father—he

"COUGAR COLLEGE" STARTED IN B.C.

VANCOUVER—Something unusual in the way of education will be undertaken by the British Columbia government shortly when a school for cougar hunters is opened on Vancouver Island.

The "Cougar College" will be part of the B.C. game commission's new predatory animal control plan and its head will be Jimmy Dewar, Chief Game Warden for B.C., who has gained the reputation of "King of the Cougar Hunters".

Dewar, who stays on the trail until "I get the cat", left here on a little business trip—to hunt and kill a ferocious male cougar on nearby Bowen Island which has been reported causing damage to property and endangering livestock.

Hunter of the dangerous puma for 20 years, Dewar will have at the school five cougar hounds imported at $500 each, from Arizona to form a nucleus for scientifically planned kennels to breed cougar hounds.

Big Cuban Crop May Boost Sugar

OTTAWA.—Depressing reports on the domestic sugar beet crop due to frost and late seeding have fueled as yet to sour a generally bright picture on the consumer sugar front.

Most important "good" news is that the big Cuban crop is running a good 10 per cent. better than forecast. This means at least six million, instead of 5.5 million tons from that one country. It means that the "phantom" allotment made by the allocation authorities some months back may actually be realized. It means very likely that the extra dividend promised Canadian housewives later this year will materialize.

The "phantom" allotment amounted to about 800,000 tons. It was sugar which was allocated without being supported by any actual supply. It was a device to enable the Americans to announce their politically-desired allocation of 93 pounds per capita for 1947.

Because of the larger-than-expected crops in Cuba and other areas, this phantom supply will now most likely be realized. Thus if Canada is successful in shortly obtaining physical delivery from Cuba of her entire allotment, she will be in a comfortable position relative to the present ration and future action by United States toward decontrol. Much of Canada's share of the Cuban crop is already here in Canada.

63,637 DWELLINGS BUILT IN CANADA IN 1946

OTTAWA.—A revised figure of earlier estimates puts the number of new dwelling units created in Canada for 1946 at 63,637, compared with 48,599 for 1945, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics announced. The new total for 1946 is a revision of a preliminary estimate of 62,660.

The 1946 total comprises 48,700 single dwellings, 2,456 units in semi-detached or doubles, 510 in rows or terraces, 1,748 in duplexes, 687 in triplexes, 2,200 in apartments or flats, 2,486 in business premises and apartments, 11 other types, and 4,809 in conversions or reconversions.

Woman Mayor Shows Authority

SOAP LAKE, Wash. — Mayor Maggie Waltho, who fired the town marshal and took away his station wagon, reckons "a woman can take care of this one-horse town. I'll be the marshal until a better one comes along."

The 270-pound Mrs. Waltho is the key figure in a lively "one-horse-town" controversy.

"Maggie the Mayor" said recently that she had asked for Marshal James Rigas' resignation. Rigas' wife said it was because he had confiscated 10 punchboards at two taverns.

This the mayor denied indignantly.

"In a fourth-class town, what the mayor says goes," she asserted. "And it's the town marshal that goes this time."

Will the new mayor-marshal carry a weapon?

"Irish don't carry guns," she explained. "If necessary, I'll carry a shillelagh."

MIGHT BE WORSE

Woman Magazine says in England men who helped with the housework during the war found it wasn't half so bad as women picture it; actually, most women love housework because they can come and go as they like. Those are the opinions of Sir Thomas Bennett, Britain's wartime comptroller of temporary housing.

In early times the equivalent of the modern hairpin was called a "bodkin".

VETERANS MARKET GOWNS MADE FROM FLOUR SACKS

VANCOUVER. — "Looking like a flour sack" need not be a derogatory term any more since three Second World War veterans formed the McQueen, White & Dickinson Co., to compete in the fashion world.

They had noticed the drab, ragged garments worn by people in war-ravaged and impoverished countries and decided on their new idea—colored flour sacks which could be turned into wearing apparel after the flour was delivered.

First they made a survey into the preferences of the different countries and then purchased 20,000 yards of the colorful, dual-purpose sacks in three designs—flowered, striped and plain.

Now milady in China, Greece, Poland, South America and the Philippines is proudly showing off the latest word in flour sack frocks—"made in Vancouver".

BREAKFAST WITH A FLOURISH — Breakfast need not be just a family affair. Make it gala, and ask your neighbor's weekend guests over for Sunday brunch. It'll give her a rest, you the opportunity to make this Orange Coffee Cake. Something special to eat; something simple to bake.

Orange Coffee Cake

3 tablespoons shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg, well-beaten
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup orange juice
1/4 cup milk
1 teaspoon almond extract
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1/2 teaspoon allspice
1 tablespoon melted butter
Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add egg; beat well. Stir in grated rind and flavoring. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Add to creamed mixture alternately with orange juice and milk, being very careful not to over-mix. Spread in greased baking pan.
Crush corn flakes into fine crumbs; mix with sugar, orange rind, allspice and butter. Sprinkle over coffee cake. Bake in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 20 minutes. Yield: 9 squares (8x8-inch pan).
